

BEAUTY ED'S EVE

I've always been a bit sceptical about eyeliner. Not blessed with gorgeous big eyes like Angelina Jolie, I steer clear of harsh lines and opt for soft blended shadows. Enter YSL's Easy liner, which is not only super easy to use (think colouring in with texta), but the brown colour is much less harsh than black. The result is less Miss Piggy and for more... well, Angelina (I wish). I love it. Much.

◀ FREIDA'S
EYE SHADOW

Matching your eye shadow to your dress has long been a big no-no, but Slumdog Millionaire rising starlet Freida Pinto proves it can really make your eyes pop! Here's a guide to help you get it right:

Eye colour The first trick is to choose a shade that complements your eye colour. Hazel eyes work with brown, apricot, lilac, plum, deep khaki or forest green. Brown eyes suit copper, bronze, champagne, khaki-green, tangerine, royal blue, hot pink or lime-green. Blue eyes suit earthy tones, taupe, grey, violet, black, silver, turquoise or fuchsia.

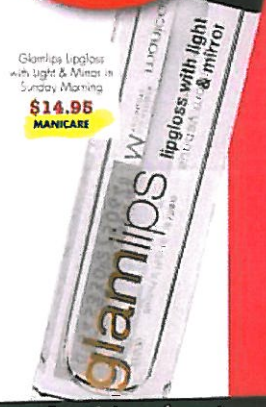

Ideal match Next, choose a shadow that's within the same tonal family as your dress (1) rather than exact match.

And go easy on the application - you only need a hint of colour above and below the lash lines and soft shading in the inner and outer corners of the eye for the look to translate.

Tips!
According to celeb make-up guru Aaron De Mey, lip gloss works a treat to sculpt and illuminate your other features. Highlight cheekbones, the inner corner of each eye and the bridge of the nose, he says. Just be sure to use a clear gloss like this one!

◀ NEW LOOK FOR JEN?

Could recently single Jennifer Aniston be gearing up for a break-up makeover? According to reports from the UK, the actress is ready to experiment with a new 'do'. For the first time in 15 years, Jen is letting someone other than her trusted hairdresser Chris McMillan - creator of the widely imitated 'Rachel' hairstyle - touch her famous locks. Despite having paid more than $80,000 for Chris to travel with her on a recent week-long promo trip for Marley & Me, Jen is making do without the star snipper on the set of her latest flick The Baster. Word is, Chris is instructing someone else on how to do Jen's hair, while he concentrates on building up his celebrity clientele. And Jen is reportedly cool with the new arrangement since she 'wants to experiment with her look'. Perhaps it'll be a case of new stylist, new hair, new man? Here's hoping!

2009 - Jen's current look is long, sexy and poker straight

2004 - The full-bodied look

1996 - Everyone's fave, 'The Rachel'

Tip! Next time you detox, give your hair some thought too. Wash with a clarifying shampoo to get rid of product build-up and massage your scalp for a proper clean
